

Ruta Submarina

The steam Piedra de los Meros

Maximum Depth: 42 mts.
Minimum Depth: 27 mts.

This dive main attraction is the sight of the Arna, a Czechoslovakian merchant ship, 90 meters long which sunk in 1928 after colliding with the area undergrounds.

One mile southwest from Cabo de Gata's lighthouse, it lies in sailing position with all its elements remaining intact. To enter its store area and corridors it is advisable to use lanterns or flashlights.

Nearby, many Moonfish, Barracudas, Pollack and Groupers and, in the sand, some sea eagles.

Los Amarillos and Los Burros

Maximum Depth: 22 mts.
Minimum Depth: 16 mts.

An underwater route in open water dives, 200 meters away south of San José's Village.

The presence of Crossbow Fish, known as Amarillos or Burros, which give name to this route.

There are two stone slabs separated by a 30 meters long sand corridor. Amongst other species, we can find Groupers, Pollack and Sea Bass.

Cueva del Francés

Maximum Depth: 18 mts.
Minimum Depth: 6 mts.

Located by Loma Pelada and inhabited by red Mullet, Groupers, Morays, Octopus and prawns, will offer us different caves and caverns. The deepest and most spectacular bursts with marine life in its purest form.

Maximum Depth: 33 mts.
Minimum Depth: 27 mts.

Facing the village of La Isleta del Moro, we will see big size sea specimens. We emphasize the Groupers, the Pollack, the Congers, the Barracudas, Nudibranchs, Platyhelminthes, etc.

La Amatista

Maximum Depth: 15 mts.
Minimum Depth: 6 mts.

A gorgeous dive, just below the viewpoint of La Amatista. The bottom is made of a stone platform that seems like a hand which ends heads to the sea. An area with many Groupers, Pollacks, Sea Bases, Congers, Morays and spectacular Fan Mussels, spread out along the Posidonia meadows.

Cerrico Romero

Maximum Depth: 16 mts.

West to Playazo, a dive composed by very interesting different itineraries. It is made of big stone blocks, a small cave with colorful walls and an area of slabs and eaves with great variety of life. We will find families of Groupers, Sea Bases, Congers, Breems, etc.

SUSTAINABLE DIVING

1. Use, every time you can, different alternatives to the anchor, because this harms the sea bottom.
2. Keep the floating neutral and make sure not to drag your equipment through the bottom. Be especially cautious at night or with low visibility, when you enter caves or when you stop to take a picture.
3. Be careful not to touch anything with your flippers or hands.
4. Do not pick up living or dead organisms, mineral or archaeological remains.
5. Never feed the animals during the diving sessions. It can alter the natural chain.
6. To identify all you see, take a waterproof guide of the submarine species during the diving.
7. In short, be respectful with the environment.

Underwater routes of the Region of Níjar

Whatever is our diving level, diving, apnea or snorkel lover will be wondered with the sea bottom, which is visible up to 30 meters, and spreads out under our coasts.

The Terrestrial and Sea Natural Park of Cabo de Gata-Níjar, declared Biosphere Reserve by UNESCO is a wonderful location to do these activities and to be able to observe a wide sea life in one of the 30 dives.

The importance of its landscape, based on its geo-diversity and contrasts, it offers us some volcanic and marine formations, exclusive of the peninsula. Therefore, the Region offers us a paradise for any activity, sport or touristic and it gives us the opportunity to get to know it by land or sea.

By sea, 12000 hectares of indescribable underwater sensations and more than one thousand species of fauna and flora await for our curious looks. Protected species such as the Grouper, the Pollack, the Bream, the Octopus, the Cuttlefish, the Moray, and the Conger, they all swim in clear waters along the volcanic rock corridors with all the colored sponges settled along them.

The oceanic Posidonia meadows and its wrecked ships, plentiful in our coasts due to the traffic nowadays and due to the pirate's ancient refuge will complete our offer of unforgettable dives.
